FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Office of the Speaker announces newly designed website

Access website for standing committee schedule, press releases, contact information

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. — The Office of the Speaker is pleased to announce its newly designed website www.navajonationcouncil.org.

The revamping of the website was initiated by the Office of the Speaker and its public information section as a way to reach the public in an effort to provide information regarding the Navajo Nation government. The website serves as the primary channel for information for the latest news and events relative to the Navajo Nation Council and the Office of the Speaker.

The website is a work in progress and the public information section will continue adding new features and improved navigation tools. Visitors to the website will experience a new vibrant professional layout and can look forward to new features.

The Council's weekly standing committee meeting schedule, press releases from the Legislative Branch of the Navajo Nation, downloadable documents, pictures and contact information is currently available.

Any questions or suggestions for strengthening our communications is encouraged and welcomed, contact Joshua Lavar Butler, communications director for the Legislative Branch of the Navajo Nation.
