PHOENIX, Ariz.—Navajo Nation President Ben Shelly spent the weekend in Phoenix attending meetings for native scholarships and for the economic development for Navajo craftsmen.

On Oct. 11, he attended the Miss Indian Arizona Scholarship Pageant in Scottsdale, where he escorted Shaandiin Parrish for the pageantry.

Parrish, a Navajo contestant majoring in political science at Arizona State University, came in third place at the pageant.

President Shelly said, “I was very happy to participate in the pageant and I’m proud of Shaandiin. The scholarship is a great opportunity for our youth to expand their horizons with a college education.”

During an Oct. 12 matchup between the Arizona Cardinals and Washington Redskins, Navajo Nation President Ben Shelly met with Redskins owner Dan Snyder to discuss expansion of an NFL agreement.

In early 2014, the Navajo Nation entered into a licensing agreement with the National Football League. The NFL executed the franchising agreement with Navajo Arts and Crafts Enterprise for the sale of Navajo jewelry, rugs, sand paintings and other arts across the country. The Redskins waived the licensing fee for the Navajo Nation and are working with the league to open the agreement for the rest of the NFL.

President Shelly met with Redskins owner Dan Snyder to discuss expansion of the licensing agreement to the other 31 NFL teams across the country.

“We have an enormous opportunity to bring more business to Navajo craftsmen and artisans,” President Shelly said. “This licensing agreement with the NFL has opened the door for new jobs and economic development for the Nation.”

President and First Lady Martha Shelly were guests of Snyder in the Redskins suite for the game on Sunday.

“We were there on a mission,” President Shelly said, adding that the meeting between the Navajo Nation and the Redskins was about more than football.

President Shelly and Snyder spoke about funding for other possible initiatives, including construction of an indoor sports pavilion on the Navajo Nation and funding for the Navajo Code Talkers Museum.

Director of the Navajo Nation Division of Economic Development, Albert Damon, has worked on the licensing agreement between the Navajo Nation and the Redskins from the start of negotiations.

“This licensing agreement allows for growth of the Nation’s cottage industry for developing arts and crafts,” Damon said. “The Redskins offered first and the NFL issued the licensing agreement.

“Now we’re after the other teams,” he added.

NACE is currently working on filling hundreds of orders for items that will be sold at FedEx Field and possibly at other stadiums in the NFL.
