“Our health care workers at each health care facility are doing a great job getting the COVID-19 vaccines into the arms of our people, especially when you compare the data to areas off the Navajo Nation. Please remember that once you receive the first and second doses of the vaccine, you still have to take all precautions and do everything you can to protect yourself. We have more reports of the COVID-19 variants in regions of the country, so please keep your guard up. Stay home as much as possible, wear a mask or two in public, avoid in-person gatherings, practice social distancing, and wash your hands often,” said Navajo Nation President Jonathan Nez.

The Navajo Nation’s curfew remains in effect from 9:00 p.m. to 5:00 a.m. (MST) seven days a week. Health care facilities across the Navajo Nation continue to administer COVID-19 vaccines during drive-thru events or by appointment. If you would like to receive the vaccine, please contact your health care provider for more information for your Service Unit.

“Be safe and take care of another, especially your elders and those with underlying health conditions. The risks are COVID-19 are still present in our communities, so please remain diligent and protect yourself and your loved ones. Keep praying for our health care workers and all of our people,” said Vice President Myron Lizer.
