“We are seeing a gradual decline in the numbers of new cases each week, but we have to remain diligent and keep taking precautions to lessen the spread of COVID-19 in our homes and communities. Wearing two masks in public places and getting fully vaccinated and boosted are the best defense against this virus. Please be very cautious, encourage your elders to take precautions, and continue to pray,” said Navajo Nation President Jonathan Nez.

Health care facilities on the Navajo Nation continue to administer COVID-19 vaccines. If you would like to receive one of the COVID-19 vaccines, please contact your health care provider and schedule an appointment.

“Our faith in our prayers and the love of our family and friends continue to carry us through this pandemic. Our frontline workers continue to fight hard for all of us each day. So please, help them by taking extra precautions and taking care of our elders and those with underlying health conditions. We are in this together,” said Vice President Myron Lizer.
