The Navajo Nation Human Rights Commission would like to learn about your thoughts on becoming a Navajo language interpreter by taking courses and becoming a certified interpreter for election and voting activities. The Navajo Nation needs qualified individuals who are certified interpreters and interested in helping our Navajo speakers to fully understand the ballots and election activities. Counties that extend onto the Navajo Nation are required by the 1965 Voting Rights Act to provide Navajo language assistance to Navajo voters. If you are interested in becoming a certified Navajo language interpreter, please complete the brief survey. We appreciate your response.
